- He knows the subject very well but cannot teach it. It's clear that he was a TA previous to this and should NOT be teaching the class. The examples in class do not prepare us for the homework or tests. Kids with previous experience of this level of calculus have a huge advantage in this class. 3/10
 - He teaches very fast but that's understandable due to the course intensity. I love going to his OHs and he is very helpful and cares for students.
 - Hope to write bigger and clearer on the board please~
 - I liked, for the six week course, putting the series in the middle rather than the end. Teaching was clear and effective.
 - I really liked the structure of this course. It is my second time taking the course, and it was so much easier this time around. The sequences and series material was covered in the middle of the class, rather than taught towards the end. That material is, in my opinion, the hardest, and learning it way before the final rather than waiting to squeeze a lot of new material towards the end, made it a lot less stressful. Lectures in class were easy to follow and he didn't use any heavy math vocabulary. Exams were fair, as well as grading. Wish there was extra credit though. I liked meeting consistently in the week rather than having a gap every other day like in the regular school year.
 - Notes were a little unclear and there were too much. There needs to be clearer steps and directions on how to do problems. Other than that, tests were fair and Anton was an overall good teacher for a pretty difficult class
 - Professor Bobkov is very organised. His lectures are clear however, in some cases if he showed more steps it would be easier to follow. Overall, he is very approachable.
 - Sometimes it was a little tough to hear the professor because he would talk while facing the board.
 - The instructor is very efficient at teaching the concepts that he needs to cover in terms of examinations etc, but doesn't cover all of the concepts traditionally covered in the course. This may, however, be because the class was taught in an accelerated summer session setting.
 - The professor explained things well and provided us worksheets and lots of practice problems. I also liked how he spent more time teaching us about infinite series, the hardest part about the course. But I also wish he took more time with his explanations sometimes. Sometimes he went a little fast, even though going fast is understandable because there's a lot of material to cover in six weeks.
 - Very good professor, office hours are a must though. Tends to think we're smarter than we are, and skips through the algebra. Would have preferred to see the work done out. Skips some steps and such, but takes the effort to have a lot of office hours, and those are essential to go too. Super nice, would have preferred him to go slower, and not have lessons after midterms, but it's understandable for a six week summer class. Other than that, great professor.
 - Very nice and intelligent! I wish we had more class time though, because he teaching us very useful things, it's just unfortunate that he doesn't have enough time to go into as much detail as possible because of the limited time we have. I would take another course with him again, he is so nice and approachable in office hours.
 - cool guy
